

Steroid metabolites trap radicals

Proposed test: radical-trapping protection persists in participant-derived cells despite receptor blockade at physiological concentrations.

Support distinguishes chemical protection; rival contributions remain open.