

Public approval reduces private adoption

Proposed browser experiment tests public expression and confidential private choice.

Predicted: restored B access lowers later private A choice.